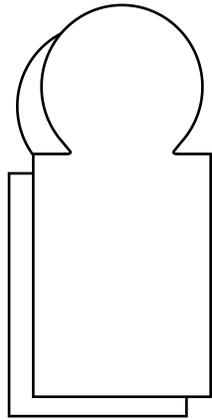

Diagram 1

Cut out the body:

Cut 2 of the body on the fold.

Open up the pieces so that right sides facing.

You should have what is shown in Diagram 1.

Step
2.

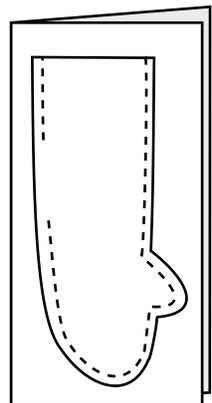

Diagram 2

Make two arms:

Trace arm shapes onto smaller rectangles of fabric.

Stitch around where shown, in Diagram 2.

Step
3.

Attach arms and legs:

Align the arm seams so they match the body (Diagram 8), or so they intersect the body (Diagram 9).

The choice is yours! 😊

Step
7.

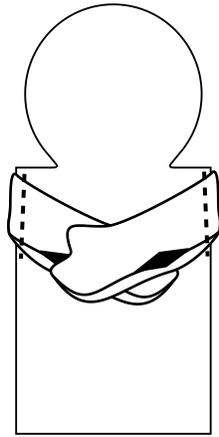

Diagram 10

Pin arms inside body, aligning with marks on shoulders.

Stitch as close to the edge as possible, where shown, in Diagram 10.

Step

Diagram 12

Pin legs onto body, aligning the leg seams so they match the body (Diagram 11), or so they intersect the body (Diagram 12).

The choice is yours - if you want the feet facing forward, choose the option in Diagram 12.

Step
9.

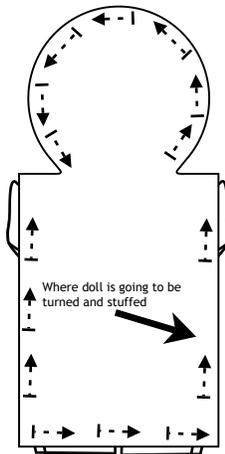

Diagram 13

Pin second body piece over the arms and legs so they are sandwiched between, as shown in Diagram 13.

The big arrow is pointing to where the doll body is going to be turned, stuffed and sewn.

Step
10.

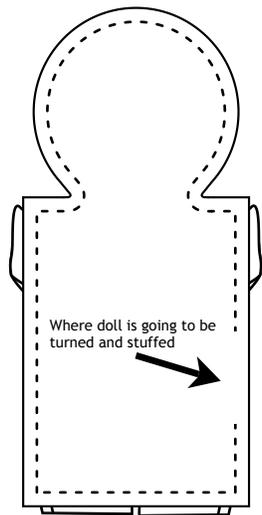

Diagram 14

Stitch right around as shown in Diagram 14.

Turn right side out.

Stuff arms - hand stitch seams closed with a blind or slip stitch.

Stuff legs - hand stitch seams closed with a blind or slip stitch.

Step

The Face:

Draw, paint or embroider the facial features.

Diagram 15 is just an example and by no means do you have to use this face. 😊

The final rag doll:

This diagram gives an approximation of what the dolls' shape will be.

You can adjust the angle of the arms and legs.

You can also use the optional stitching for elbow and knee joints, as well as for representing fingers.

Optional:

Hand- or machine-stitch lines where elbows and knees would be for a more articulated doll.

Hand- or machine-stitch lines to represent
